DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

My years as Director of the School have been most challenging and rewarding. I have been associated with a dedicated and excellent staff, both academic and non-academic, who have worked diligently, enthusiastically and effectively to expand the facilities, staff, research undertakings and student enrolments in the School. Each year we are seeing our graduates take on new roles in an ever expanding profession. The present is exciting and the future holds promise for staff and students alike.

Last year a committee of thirteen persons (staff and students from within the School, the University and the broader community outside the University) studied the School's aims and objectives and made recommendations concerning them. The report and recommendations were comprehensive and substantial, and they were debated thoroughly and thoughtfully by the School's personnel. The result was that the staff adopted, by consensus, a set of aims and objectives and also some 30 measures which they wished to implement as steps towards their aims. It is fortuitous, I think, that a newly appointed Director will have these clearly documented views of the staff at hand as guidelines. There is no doubt that universities are going to undergo severe budget restrictions and our School will be no exception; restrictions of this sort will frustrate forward looking endeavors. However I have no doubt that a staff as dedicated as this one will find ways and means to continue to strengthen and expand the programs of teaching and research which they have developed thus far. The School has a fine history of maintaining high standards of teaching and preparing well-qualified, productive graduates at both undergraduate and master's level. It will continue to do so and will also conduct the research required of a modern university to stimulate excellent teaching and scholarly enquiry at all levels.

As Director, I have had the pleasure of standing in the midst of all this activity and observing the progress. However, a time comes when new thoughts are needed from the top administrator and a younger person is more apt to provide them. A time comes, too when an organization has taken shape and stabilized sufficiently to not only withstand a change in leadership but indeed profit from it. About a year ago I weighed all the pros and cons surrounding the foregoing thoughts and added the fact that as Director I had not had time to keep abreast of my own field of study, nutrition, as well as I might have liked. I recognized that I was feeling torn between merely observing and sharing in the excitement which the scholars who surrounded me were experiencing in pursuing academic enquiry, and actually experiencing some of that excitement myself by preparing my own field of study. I recognized also that although I was enjoying my work as Director immensely, I was beginning to feel I wanted a new kind of challenge. On balance, I decided we could all profit from my relinquishing the directorship, and resuming teaching and hopefully some research as well.

Obviously considerable reorientation on my part will be necessary. Thus, I anticipate I will be as busy as ever, because I will have to bring my knowledge of my own subject up to date after a considerable lapse of time, and I will want to do it quickly. I believe that teaching will force me to accomplish this feat in record time.

I am concerned about the nutritional health of Canadians, and of Albertans, in particular. I would like to assist, if I can, the dietetics profession and other policy makers in planning ways and means of ensuring that all people are provided with the opportunity, and hopefully the motivation, to follow eating patterns which promote optimal health. Considerable work along this line is being done in this School at the present time (- by the Foods and Nutrition Division as a whole, but also more broadly speaking, by certain staff members from the other Divisions -) and I would like to add my "shoulder to the wheel".

I look forward eagerly and positively to assuming my new role within the School. I am sure I do so because I view the School's students and staff - all students and all staff - as a group which I respect and enjoy tremendously.

THE CHANGING ROLE OF HOME ECONOMISTS

I was asked to write briefly on the above topic and I find it challenging to select thoughts which can be contained within a few paragraphs. Volumes have been written on the subject during the past decade, and discussions which occur among our own School staff members within any one week would fill further volumes. Nevertheless, I shall attempt to select a few remarks about developments which are occurring or are apt to occur soon, in Alberta.

In clarifying its aims and objectives last year, the School adopted the following definition of Home Economics:

> "Home Economics is the study of the laws, conditions, principles and ideals concerned with people's immediate physical environment and their nature as social beings, and especially the relationship between the two for the purpose of improving the quality of peoples' daily lives."

The School's teaching and research programs are designed to prepare graduates who put their knowledge of the subject into practise for the benefit of all families and individuals. Some graduates will find positions in narrow specializations of the total field, others in broader, more generalized spheres; all will be contributing to the furthering of the goals of home economics, and in this sense practising as home economists.

There is a move afoot on the part of the Alberta Home Economics Association to register th profession formally under an act of the Alberta Legislature. Hopefully, this endeavor will succeed. If it does, then doubtless the next step will be for the professional association to fulfill increasing responsibility of setting standards of performance, arranging for continuing education of members, and so forth.

Our graduates have been taking on new roles over the past five or ten years, and they have shown great initiative and inventiveness in so doing. I expect they will continue to do so and will also assist the Alberta professional association in pressing forward toward registration and discharging professional responsibilities. I have every faith in our graduates and their ability and motivation to assist in these measures.

It may be of interest to learn that several of our staff members are attempting to write a publication on home economics as a helping profession. It may be of interest also to note that one of the School's aims is to develop a substantial interdisciplinary course on the profession of home economics. It is likely the course will be a required one. It would deal with the relationship between the profession, contemporary society, the School's programs of study, its students and the professional roles of graduates; planning for the course is now under way and should be completed within the next year. These two developments are tangible expression of the staff's commitment to home economics and support of the profession which graduates will soon be entering.

Beth Empey

BIOGRAPHICAL VITA DR. E. EMPEY

In June, 1976, Dr. Elizabeth L. Empey terminates sixteen years as Director of the School. Born and brought up in Edmonton, Dr. Empey attended public and high school in the city. In 1937, she obtained a teaching certificate from the Edmonton Normal School. For three years she taught in a rural school in Alberta and then returned to the University of Alberta from where she received a B.Sc. in Home Economics in 1943. Following graduation, Dr. Empey completed her C.D.A. - approved Dietetic Internship, and then worked as a Dietitian for the T. Eaton Company store in Toronto. In 1947, she returned to the University of Alberta as Dietitian in charge of Residence Dining Halls. After seven years of very successful work as a Dietitian she returned to the books and undertook postgraduate work at Cornell University. In 1956, she received a Master of Nutritional Science Degree and in 1959, Cornell granted her a Ph.D. degree in Nutrition. Once more Dr. Empey returned to the University of Alberta; this time to teach in the School of Household Economics. In 1960, she became the Director of the School and in July, 1976 she will resign from this position to return to the teaching of Nutrition in the Faculty of Home Economics.

Dr. Empey has taken a very keen interest in the students that have gone through the School in the last sixteen years. She has seen and has been responsible for a very significant growth in the school from the point of view of programs, number of students and number of staff. It is with great satisfaction and with great pride that the School says thank you to Dr. Empey and wish her much happiness and success as she resumes her teaching duties. Dr. Empey can look back at her years as director with great satisfaction of a job well done.

RING CEREMONY

The Ring Ceremony was held on May 26, the morning of convocation. At the ceremony, the girls received their professional rings to be worn on the little finger of the working hand. In accepting the ring the girls pledge:

"- to demonstrate my competence in the body of knowledge unique to my facet of Home Economics.

- to further the development of human resources through working in conjunction with other disciplines.

- to help families and individuals realize a more satisfying life.

- and to live creatively in a changing world."

1975-76 has been an interesting year for the House Ec. Club. We have tried to balance out academic, social and sports activities. Academic activities have included seminars on such things as Professional Organizations, On Buying a Car and, an introduction to the School of Household Economics. In conjunction with the Careers Committee we also had many 'brown baggers' on careers. Our sports events were basically intramurals with a few extra events, student-staff sports-nites and curling bonspiels, thrown in on the side. With social activities we have had great success with the Welcoming Party, Wine and Cheese Parties and the Dinner and Dance. Social activities with other faculties have also been very popular this season.

Supper meetings were quite well attended and like last year the 75-76 T-shirts were very popular.

High hopes and great ideas soon became more realistic when you began to find out how willing people were to give a little time to carry out plans and/or ideas.

For the 1976-77 Club, we pass on a little success, some disillusions, and the best of everything for the upcoming year and to all those that follow.

YEARBOOK EDITOR'S MESSAGE

SEATED: Karen Hoover, Leslie Nelson. STANDING: Brenda Turner, Advertising; Lydia Darichuk, Ass't. Editor; Wendy Benson, Editor.

Working as editor on this yearbook has been a challenging and a different experience for me. Unfortunately, the Yearbook staff was not organized until early October and so things were a little slow getting done.

The Yearbook staff as a whole has faced many ups and downs this year. Between making attempts to break even, trying to get a wide variety and plenty of pictures taken, and arranging for the Student Photographer; I think we've all survived.

I would like to congratulate all the graduating students on their successful completion of University. I hope this Yearbook will serve its purpose in the years to come for the 1976 Graduating Class as well as the undergrads. The purpose of the Yearbook is to help us remember the happy and carefree moments (eg. the Formal) and the frustrating moments (eg. Chem 250), as well as the day-to-day activities in our university lives.

I would like to thank the following people for their contributions to the Yearbook, either through donating their labour or aiding us with pictures: Brenda McIntyre, Marilyn McNeil, Claudia Brodersen, Barb Pickard, Dr. Kernaleguen, and Hilary Fedoruk. All of the work done for the Yearbook is greatly appreciated.

Wendy Benson

WINE & CHEESE

Two Wine and Cheeses were held this year: December 6 and March 12. Everyone enjoyed themselves at both of them. The evidence is in the pictures!

SPORTS

This year we placed tenth in Intramural Sports events. This was an exceptional year for participation and we hope it continues into next year.

Sports activities included softball, curling, 3 on 3 basketball, 5 on 5 basketball, volleyball, jogging, swimming, waterpolo, tennis, billiards, bowling, fencing, golf, yoga, and probably some others too distant to recall.

Below are some of the lucky participants in our sporting events:

Heather MacDonald	Theresa Grob	Anne Lambert
Karen Hoover	Cathy Sinal	Masaye Tanaka
Wendy Cave	Cathy Herr	Diane McClaflin
Ruth Wyrostok	Joanne Molesky	Diane Newman
Jackie Baker	Irene Kalyn	Helga deBruin
Marilyn Paulgaard	Elaine Wadey	Candy Gibbons
Linda Hay	Barb Pickard	Joyce Brett
Linda McWilliam	Heather Spring	Colleen Pierce

There were more names on the Participation Charts in the East and West women's locker room but we regret we did not get their names before they took the charts down.

LOOSE WEIGHT BY EATING!

SAN FRANCISCO (ZNS-CUP) Are you ready for bread that helps you lose those unwanted pounds instead of putting them on?

MEDICAL WORLD NEWS is reporting that a new kind of bread containing cellulose fibers will be out on the market soon.

The medical magazine says that the new bread contains 25 percent less calories than most breads - yet has 25 times more roughage. Roughage is considered absolutely essential in most weight reduction diets.

The medical magazine says one study has found that people who ate more than 7 slices of the cellulose bread each day over a 53 day period lost 5.72 pounds on the average. Those who ate less of the bread lost a mere three pounds on the average.

The new cellulose bread is made of the very stuff newspapers are printed on. MEDICAL WORLD NEWS does not mention how the bread tastes.

JOE COLD

Dear Sir:

I must take exception to certain comments made by Joe Blogg on these pages. I am a Commerce student, but I am one of those who wear 3/4 length leather jackets, Colony slacks, and carry Samsonite Superslim Joe Cool Briefcases.

I would like to point out to Joe that while it is cool to be a Commerce student, it is no longer cool to wander around wearing hush puppies or giant shit-kickers, blue ski-jackets with tags attached, and T-shirts with "Prisoner of Alcatraz - Unlisted Number" emblazed upon them. Indeed, times are changing, and I'm afraid Joe Blogg is no longer as cool as he once was. He even has a moustache. Besides, I saw him at Bar None drinking coffee.

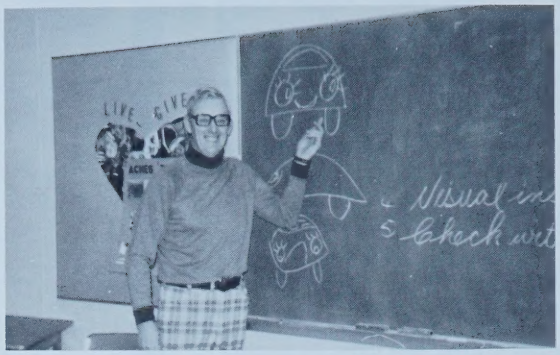
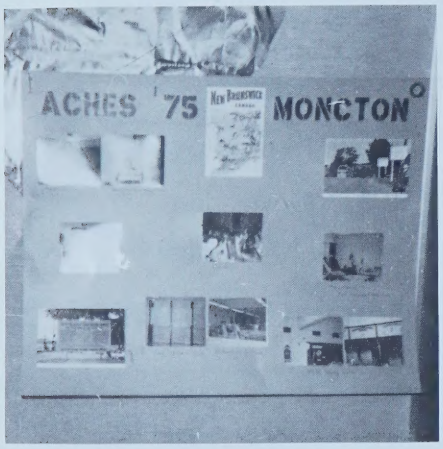
SEMINARS

Carol Buckard talked about CUSO at a Brown Bagger in October.



Mr. Pugh gave an amusing talk on used cars at the March General Meeting.

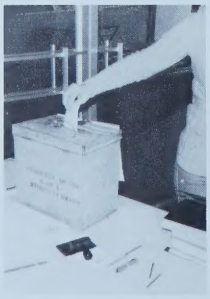


Also at the General Meeting in March, Paulette Buss told us about her ACHES trip.

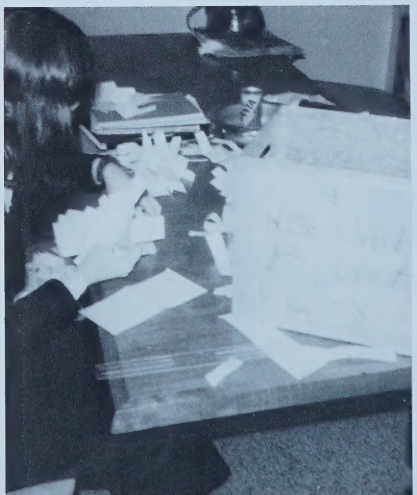
Seminars were numerous this year and were an important part of the functions put on by the House Ec. Club. Other seminars held, that are not represented in the pictures include:

- an Orientation Seminar held in September and was basically an introduction to the School of House Ec. and the three divisions.
- a seminar on Professional Organizations to which students can belong and can take an active role both during and after their studies.
- a seminar with H. Ec. graduates to tell us what they and other classmates have been doing or have tried tried to do with their degree.
- various Brown Baggers dealing with Careers held in the lounge during lunch.
- a seminar on "What You Should Know About Cars" held in November.

ELECTIONS



S.U. Election



H. Ec. Club Elections - a first!

PERSPECTIVES

This year a series of seminars on the "Perspectives of Home Economics was presented by the candidates for the Deanship of the Faculty of Home Economics.

DR. M. STILES

Dr. Michael Stiles suggested that it is necessary to show an awareness of our profession and communicate to the public what Home Economics is all about. Our faculty is composed of a mosaic of different people whose situation is analogous to three ethnic groups in a single nation. He values the security of the family and feedback from the student body.

Dr. M. Stiles

DR. S. PRICE-BONHAM

Dr. Sharon Price-Bonham feels that Home Economics will see positive changes in thenear future. She would like to see a more male oriented faculty. A more effective public relations program using media and grads would make our profession more visible. Our research will indicate where our talents and interests lie and this will serve to change our image.

Dr. S. Price-Bonham

MS. D. BADIR

Our third candidate, Ms. Doris Badir, proposed that daily living and everyday problem solving are two main constituents of our field. Home Economics, over the years, has become a defensive discipline in that it has drawn inward and is considered a "women's world". We share common concerns of food, clothing, shelter, and human contact and yet we come from different backgrounds and multidisciplinary areas of study. Ms. Badir would like to see team teaching in interrelated areas in the faculty.

DR. B. McDONALD

Dr. Bruce McDonald from the University of Manitoba felt that Home Economists might best serve as liaisons between technology and the individual. To meet this end, we need to be constantly aware of technological advancements. This field is unique in that it integrates physical, biological, and social sciences including arts and humanities. Home Economists are people oriented and must play a role in helping the public to effectively utilize problem solving techniques. We are a professional faculty and the government, media, business, and community must be made aware of our capabilities.

We would like to welcome Ms. Badir as the Dean of the Faculty of Home Economics. Best of luck in the coming years.

Ms. D. Badir
